Hannovers dressage foals popular

Valentin leads statistics

Verden. At the Verden Auction Online of dressage foals the second foal led the statistics. Valentin achieved the top price of 52,000 Euros. Whoever wanted to secure Hannover's top genes for the dressage arena had to invest an average of 10,289 Euros.

Around 60 bids were placed online for Valentin by Vitalis/Fürstenball (b. a. e.: Enrico Messelis, Kefferhausen). A customer from the USA had the longest breath, 52,000 Euros was the knock down price. For the second time already, breeder Enrico Messelis had reason to celebrate with his Hannoveraner. Three years ago the full sister of Valentino's dam had been one of the top foals at the Elite Foal Auction.

The small collection of dressage foals was in great demand. 19 fillies and colts with first-class pedigrees were part of the auction lot. "This is already the third Verden Online Auction within four weeks," said managing director Wilken Treu. "These regular events enable us to offer constant sales events under the current conditions to our breeders as well as to our existing and new customers".

Already next Saturday the Verden Online Auctions will continue. From June 10th to 13th, top-class show jumping foals will be the focus of interest. Another two weeks later – from July 1st to 4th – Hannover's top offspring are waiting for new owners for the fifth time. The next riding horses will be for sale on July 18. These talents can be personally inspected and tried out in the training and sales centre from July 7th.
