Auction horses getting ready

Verden Auction in November

Verden. The training of the riding horses of the Verden November Auction has started. From now on appointments can be made to try out the horses. On Saturday, November 14th, 66 riding horses for all requirements will be auctioned. First bids can be placed from November 8th.

A versatile collection is available for interested parties. The customer advisors of the Verden auction team will make a suitable recommendation for horses ranging from three-year-old hopefuls to six-year-old horses already matured. On the platform www.verdener-auktion-online.com the 45 dressage and 21 jumping horses are presented, as a registered user you get direct access to veterinary documents and additional information.

On November 2nd, the stables of the Verden training and sales center filled with life. After making an appointment and while observing the valid distance and hygiene rules, interested customers have the opportunity to follow the training of the horses and to try a selection of horses. The first presentation will be broadcasted live on Saturday, November 7th from 10 am CET as will the presentation on Wednesday, November 11th from 3 pm, and the free jumping on Friday, November 13th from 10 am CET. The first bids can be submitted online on November 8th, and the "Bid Up", the final auction phase, will begin on Saturday, November 14th, at 2 pm CET.
